THE DAILY SPORTS DEV 101

Day 5: Covering UW Athletics

DAY 4 HOMEWORK: WRITING

Watch a UW Athletics event, or highlights if you don't have time for a full game.

After watching, try to write a lede, nut graph, and wrap. If you want to do a body as well feel free, but you will get better practice with this when we start shadowing.

COVERING UW GAMES

As a writer for The Daily Sports, you get to cover sports! (duh)

The majority of your work will be recaps, with two different kinds:

Home Recaps

- Attend in person
- Live tweet game
- Interview players/coaches
- 600-800 words

Away Recaps

- Cover at home
- No tweets/interviews
- 400-600 words

HOME GAMES: LOGISTICS

 If you are on a beat, we expect to you attend most if not all home games! *****

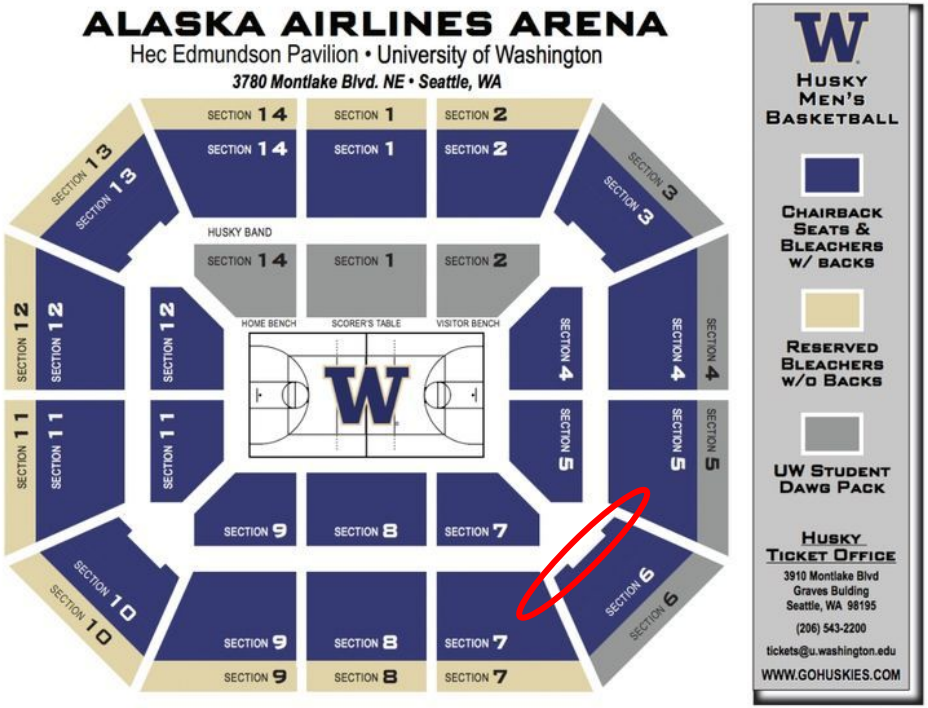
If you are attending a home game, please try to arrive 30-60 minutes before tipoff/kickoff/first pitch/tennis-first-serve-off

Most home games require credentials. We will get these for you (unless you wish to do it yourself!)

DO NOT show up in UW attire, cheer for UW, etc. Coverage should be as neutral as possible. For 4 hours, pretend you aren't a Husky.

HOME GAMES: LOGISTICS

Most sports will have a dedicated press section: ALWAYS sit there unless told otherwise. Some sports like softball, TF, outdoor tennis you'll have to get creative.



HOME GAMES: TWEETING / XEETING

Tweeting is a great way to keep fans updated and promote your/our brand!

If you're at a home game, we expect these tweets MINIMUM:

1) Game intro / Starters
2) Quarters/half scores
3) Final score
4) Observations during game

Don't be a UW fan — be a reporter

Your Twitter/X account should be professional

When we upload your article we will tag you. PLEASE retweet your articles!

Ethan Kilbreath
@EthanArles

There's no sugarcoating that the attendance for the @UW_Football spring preview is light, from the stands to the press box.

It's also not a big deal. Spring game hasn't been a spectacle for years for the Huskies, and they're essentially playing a simulated scrimmage. (1/2)

This is 100% bullshit. The crowd looked nothing like this picture when things got going Saturday. Was actually impressed at how many ppl showed up compared to previous years. Don't know who Ethan Kilbreath is but he's full of it. Stop publishing this garbage

Not a great look for UW as Athlon highlighted their dismal spring game crowd

HOME GAMES: INTERVIEWS

Interviews will always happen postgame with coaches/players

How interviews are managed by the sports varies, but the process is the same for all sports:

- Ask questions about the game/player performances
- Do not be biased; ask questions that mandate honest answers
- Don't be afraid to ask follow-up questions

We can record athletes and coaches without asking, they are trained in working with media people and know they are being recorded.

BUT if you are ever recording anyone else (professor, trainer, student) for sports or another question you need to ask if they are okay with being recorded

AWAY GAMES: LOGISTICS

 If you are on a beat, we expect to you cover most if not all away games! *****

If you are attending an away game, please try to watch the game if possible. If you are on campus, you can use Big Ten+ for free!

Away games don't need tweets, but if you would like to still tweet obviously go ahead.

Do not need quotes

SID's

SID's will your best friend when you're covering a beat

They manage stats, interviews, games, and everything else for a team

It's important to build a good relationship with them — they can help you schedule interviews, give you ideas for profiles, verify stats, and are your ticket to providing the best coverage of a team

Most SID's are available via email, but some will let you text them for questions during games, or for setting up interviews at practices if possible
